Kanban Service Management

かんばん - 看板

Kanban (かんばん - 看板), a Japanese term that literally means "card", indicates an element of the Just in time system of replenishment of stocks as they are consumed.

The Kanban, indicating the type of product used, is affixed to a container which, once emptied, is replenished.

This is the right tool to learn how to manage an optimal workflow within production processes, thus avoiding excessive stock in the warehouse and drastically reducing the related costs and management expenses.

THE ADVANTAGES

Why Kanban?

To manage an optimal workflow in the supply of our customers.

1 Service improvement.

2 Reduced cost of ownership.

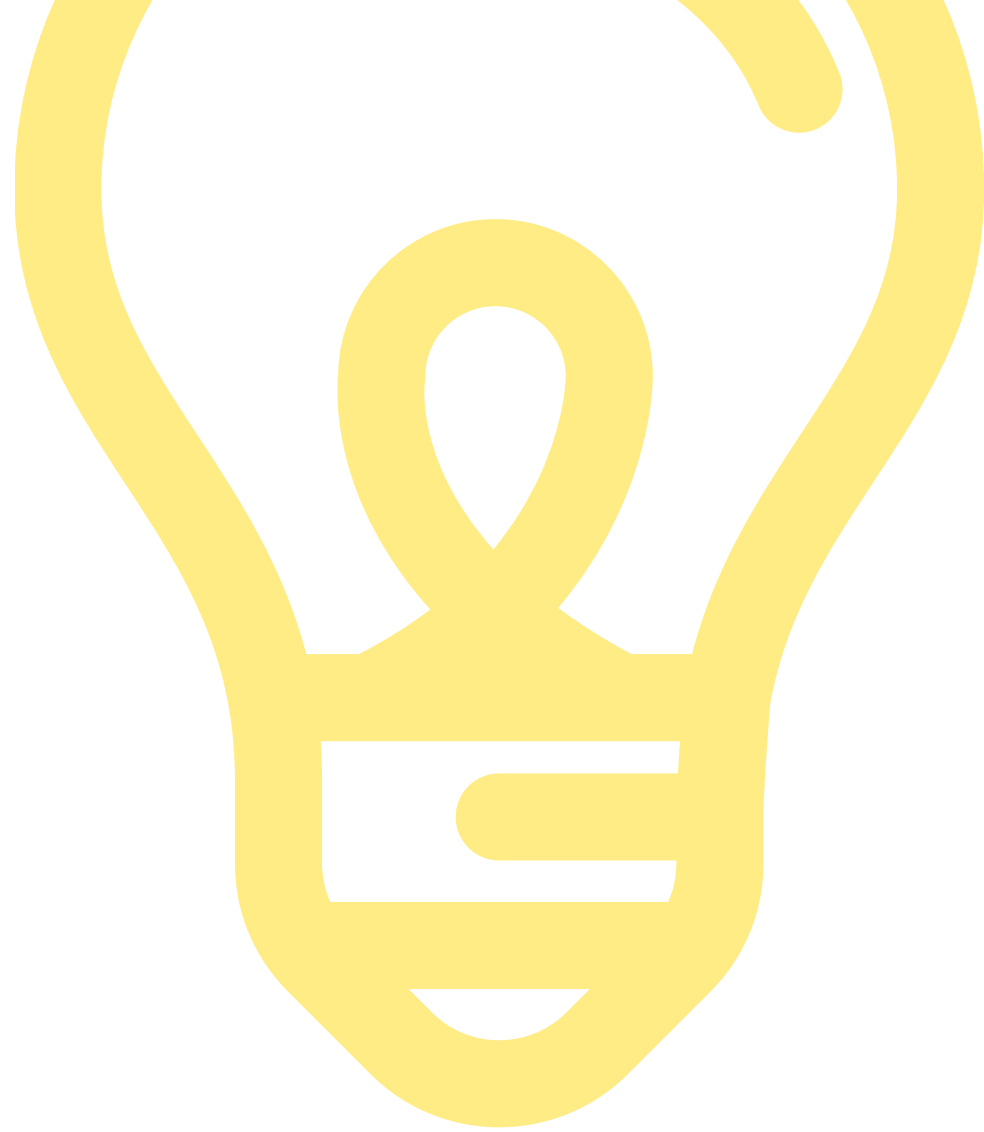

3 Less data. Fewer errors.

The number of components that the process requires at that stage is sufficient.

CHOOSE FROM THREE TYPES OF KANBAN

K1

Direct supply of the "stations" by means of our representative used for customers in Turin and province.

K2

Procurement of the "stations" by the internal warehouse with shipment by courier (material previously divided by "station" from our warehouse).

K3

Management with courier delivery service.
